RAISING RAPTOR AWARENESS

The Grey Snow Eagle House (GSEH) is the crowning achievement of the Iowa Tribe of Oklahoma's desire to protect injured eagles and increase community awareness of wild-life. Opening in 2006, the GSEH has several U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service permits. These permits allow the GSEH to rehabilitate eagles from Oklahoma for their eventual release and house eagles that are unreleaseable due to the nature or severity of their injuries. The GSEH also has an education permit that lets us to go to schools, conferences, and wildlife events to teach about eagle conservation, ecology, and Native American culture.

Most of GSEH's raptors are non-releaseable and need permanent care. Raptor adoptions are not only a unique gift, but they also benefit the lives of all the birds that call the GSEH home. Adoption donations help us provide quality food, veterinary care, and enrichment. Donation levels range from $100 to $400. All donations are tax deductible.
